Sustainability today is an important issue for the leather sector. This encompasses both ecological and environmental factors, while keeping the consumer benefit as paramount. Leather sector is innovating by way of developing new products, chemical systems and reducing energy consumption, while maximizing raw material to leather/product turnover. 51st LERIG would introduce the state-of-art concepts in this area that Indian leather sector could consider for adoption.